Brent Ogle questioned, "Who is the leader of the group?" To send out an e-mail we need a central list. He noted that we need to get the administrator for the KVAS organization straight.

Chuck Spann: "We need a space in the cabins for 2 speakers. In the Friday time slot we have an opening and a speaker from Nasa could come, but would need travel expenses including meals. We can provide a cabin and the meteorite man would provide transportation but the club would still need to pay for meals in the lodge. $50.00 per day is the current rate.

Melissa Thorner: noted in the past there were only 2 or 3 participants for children's activities. There were no volunteers for children's sessions.

Carol Hillary: noted 2 small scopes were donated and some magazine subscriptions and several small items.

David Holden is the meteorite man.
